COVERS RICHEST GOLD AREA IN CALIFORNIA

Vol. 14, No. 73. The County Seat Paper NEVADA CITY, CALIFORNIA, The Gold Center MONDAY, OCTOBER 21, 1940.

From the Californian, March 15, 1848:
The Liberty of the Press consists in the right to publish the Truth, with good motives and for justifiable ends. —Alexander Hamilton.

Thinking Out Loud

By H. M. L.

When President Roosevelt raised the price of gold from $20.67 an ounce to $35.00 per counce, he acted on the advice of economists in our government. He has never assumed to know anything about money or economic questions, and during his entire eterm of office has acted on the advice of others in regard to such matters. He is now receiving credit among his unthinking followers for having raised the price of gold. A weather vane points the way the wind blows. Mr. Roosevelt raised the price of gold. Economists believed it the only way the United States could prevent foreign competitors from underselling us in the world markets. An authority on gold and its function in trade has prepared the following discussion of Mr. Roosevelt's part in raising the gold price:

Mr. Roosevert has been praised and in some cases condemned for "raising the price of gold." Actually, he was compelled to do this by the manipulations of the price of gold and the depreciation of the English yound sterling. The sequence of events which compelled the raising of the U. S. price of gold from $20.67 to $35.00 for an ounce started in 1931 before Roosevelt became president. England raised the price of gold by depreciating the pound sterling from $4.86 to $3.40 in U. S. currency, in order to undersell the other nations and especially the U. S. in competitive world markets. This was equivalent to a discount of 30 per cent on goods purchased from England compared to the cost of the same goods in the U. S. This resulted in the rapid increase in England's export trade and a corresponding decrease in the export trade of the United States. This took jobs from American labor and increased the American depression. During this period, the best price the California gold miner could get from the U. S. government was $20.67, and a number of the California mines shipped their gold to England, receiving as high as 32.00 an ounce for their gold.

In the beginning of 1934, the people of the United States began to get apprehensive of the continued loss of foreign trade and the rapid increase in the national debt and certain economists in the government recommended to the president that the price of gold be raised to $35.00 an ounce which would again put the U. S. on an equal footing with England in the world trade. Mr. Roosevelt then had a law put through Congress giving him the right to reduce the gold content of the dollar as much as fifty per cent, or $41.34 for an ounce of gold. Under an agreement with England and France, the price of $35.00 an ounce was decided upon and the three governments formed a stabilization fund to keep the currencies of the three countries on an equitable basis.

By executive decree, all gold in the United States was seized by the government and it became unlawful for a citizen or bank to have gold coins or gold certificates which had always been redeemable in gold. The individual was paid only $20.67 an ounce for this confiscated gold. The government then raised the price of this gold to $35.00 an ounce and the "profit" on the government gold holdings was taken by the treasury. Two billion dollars was used for the secret currency stabilization fund and to this day no report has ever been made as to the profit or loss on this currency manipulation. The balance of the profit was used to decrease the rapidly rising national debt which had been contracted by the New Deal for its many so-called reforms and handouts to the "forgotten man."

Again England in the past year has raised the price of gold by depreciating the pound sterling to $4.02 and the Canadian dollar to 85 and 87 cents in U. S. currency and there is no question but that ultimately the U. S. will have to raise the price of gold or, in other words, decrease the gold content of the dollar to compete with foreign nations in a chaotic post war world trade.

No matter who wins the war, the nation with the largest gold holdings will be in the best position to control world trade in the post war world depression.

Man Held In Local Shooting

William Johnson Shot in Arm, Blames Murphy Murray, 64

Murphy Murray, 64, is held in the county jail here while Sheriff Carl J. Tobiassen and his deputies continue their investigation into the shooting Saturday afternoon of William Johnson, 44, in a cabin near the Netz quarry.

Murray was taken into custody by Tobiassen, Deputies Carl Larsen and William D. Woods and City Officer Al Sommers after Johnson told them Murray was responsible for the shooting.

Johnson told the officers Murray was dangerous but when the officers arrived at the cabin they found Murray fast asleep in his bed. Handcuffs were snapped on his wrists before he had a chance to struggle.

Gun Not Found

The officers conducted a systematic search for the large caliber pistol which caused Johnson's wound but they found only the holster.

Murray maintained he did not shoot Johnson and never owned a gun in his life.

He was taken to the county hospital, where Johnson is confined, and the latter identified him as the man who fired the shot. Murray said he never saw Johnson before.

The bullet which struck Johnson pierced his upper right arm and went out through the shoulder. Although he lost considerable blood, Johnson will recover, hospital attendants stated.

After the shooting Johnson walked into Nevada City and was taken to the office of Dr. B. W. Hummelt. From there he was taken to the county hospital.

The officers found Johnson's car near Murray's cabin. Johnson told Sheriff Tobiassen he went to visit Murray and upon his arrival Murray without warning drew the gun from a pile of wood and fired at him.

Sheriff Tobiassen is to question Murray further. The officers indicated a charge of assault with a deadly weapon with intent to commit murder will be filed against Murray.

Inquest Will Be Held In Mine Accident Fatality

Man Dies From Skull Fracture Sustained In Shaft of Alexander Mine At Town Talk

An inquest is to be conducted by Coroner A. M. Holmes into the death Saturday night of Moral Gardner, 29, during dewatering operations at the Alexander Mine near Town Talk.

Gardner was found dead at the bottom of the 45 foot shaft by Theodore Peterson, his partner, who a short time before had climbed to the surface to recuperate from the fumes of monoxide gas, created by a gasoline engine used to operate the pump.

Peterson told Coroner Holmes he noticed the pump had stopped and he went to the collar of the shaft to see what was wrong. When Gardner did not answer his calls he descended to the bottom of the shaft and found him submerged in the water.

Pulled From Shaft

After fastening ropes around him to keep his head above water, Peterson came into Grass Valley for aid. A group of men went to the mine immediately and pulled Gardner from the shaft. An examination indicated he was dead.

The supposition of the authorities is that Gardner, also effected by the monoxide fumes, started to climb the shaft ladder to the surface but fell before he reached the top, striking his head, possibly on the pump.

An examination yesterday revealed death was due to a skull fracture. No date has been set for the inquest.

The body of Gardner is to be sent to Oakland by the Holmes Funeral Home for funeral services and interment.

The deceased recently came to this city from Oakland, where he was employed as a house painter. He leaves his wife, Violet, a son, Dewey and other relatives in the Oakland area.

PLANS STARTED FOR ANNUAL TUBERCULOSIS SEAL SALE IN NEVADA CO.; BENEFITS LISTED

"That tuberculosis can happen to you—that it can happen to any of your friends or relatives? We sincerely hope it doesn't, but it did strike down over 10 persons every day last year in California, and it happened right here in Nevada County, too.

"That to help protect the people of Nevada County, we carried on a county-wide program of tuberculosis discovery and control this year?"

With that announcement, the Nevada County Tuberculosis Association will soon open its 34th annual Christmas Seal Sale.

Benefits of Christmas Seals

Here is what the Christmas Seals made possible in Nevada County:

1,340 girls and boys and contacts were tested.

500 chest X-rays were taken of positive reactors.

600 home calls on families of positive reactors were made to track down the source of infection. Help and advice were given to parents of reactors.

Hundreds of people received a better knowledge of tuberculosis and how to safeguard themselves against this disease.

Mrs. Beatrice K. Bonner of this city, seal sale chairman stated:

"Just how much can be done next year depends on the 1940 sale of Christmas Seals. We must be able to continue our campaign to discover hidden cases of tuberculosis and to prevent the spread of the disease in Nevada County."

John Mann of Grass Valley is president of the Nevada County Tuberculosis Association and Superior Judge George L. Jones is vice president.

The other officers are:

Miss Bernice Glasson of Grass Valley, secretary; E. L. Dudley of Nevada City, treasurer; Dr. Harry N. March of Grass Valley, medical advisor; Mrs. E. T. Bonner of Nevada City, seal sale chairman; Mrs. Vera Ingram of Grass Valley, publicity chairman; Dr. Carl P. Jones, Eben K. Smart, Miss Dallas Smith and H. R. Speiss of Grass Valley; Mrs. Ella M. School For School Teachers

Instead of school for the children in Nevada County, the school teachers themselves will go to school Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

The honor of being hostess to the school teachers, approximately 125 of them, for their annual institute falls this year to Nevada City.

It is with sincere pleasure and delight Nevada City welcomes the instructors of Nevada County school pupils. Most of the teachers will commute from their homes to the institute sessions here each day but many will live in Nevada City during the three days.

It is to be hoped all will find time to become better acquainted with their county seat city. Remember, schoolteachers, the keys to the city are yours. If you have never thoroughly inspected the county's new magnificent courthouse take time during the institute to do so. Nevada City's comparatively new city hall will also be open for nspection.

Points of interest abound in Nevada City. Some of the most beautiful gardens in the state are located here and their owners are always happy to conduct interested persons on tours of inspection.

The Nugget joins with the residents of Nevada City in welcoming the teachers and at the same time invites all of them, either singly or in one large group, to inspect this paper"s newspaper plant.

Fair Enough

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

As I see the issue, there is a choice between a Social-Democrat regime led by a strong adventurer and an attempt to re-establish the great American republic under the management of a man who lacks experience in the job and is inclined to flounder. If President Roosevelt believed in the republican form of government he would be my choice over Wendell Willkie. But as between a strong and head-strong national boss who brings in a new batch of home-brew Socialism every now and again and a believer in the republic who may be less ingenious and less forceful, I prefer Willkie.

Willkie might fail to make the republican form of government work. That failure might be due in part to lack of ability in the man himself and in part to the fundamental damage already wrought by the New Deal. The system may now be damaged beyond repair. But, anyway, Willkie would try to make it work, whereas it is very plain that Roosevelt wants to scrap it in favor of something of his own, improvised from month to month as he goes along.

The dishonesty and civic immorality of the New Deal are important considerations, and the particulars in which the administration has been dishonest and immoral must not be dismissed as mere personal smears. As a whole the nepotism and exploitation of office for private enrichment, the nasty little clandestine deal in fake philatelic two-headed calves early in the game, the Second Louisiana Purchase, the personalized revenge against individual opponents of the administration, the collaboration of the New Deal with the political gangsters of Chicago, Boston, New York and Jersey City amount to a shockingly immoral career.

I am afraid the term "immorality" has come to mean unchastity, and that mention of morality is thought to refer to sex stuff and to smack of sanctimony. But I use the word in the larger and more important sense, believing that the New Deal has wantonly corrupted the civic morals of the people by engaging in and conniving at conduct which has harmed their citizenship. We observe the effect in the popular tolerance of acts which, by the proper normal standard, would be condemned.

Remembering how Mr. Roosevelt lay lown in the campaigns of both 1932 and 1936 and after his electoin, sprang surprises which had not been hinted at before, I anticipate that this time he and his busy little men will go much further. It is impossible to guess what he will do. But it must be presumed that he will regard the election returns as a final repudiation of the two-party system and the substitution of a one-party government. His tendency would be further to the left and whether you say that Socialism, Communism or Nazism lie to the left makes no difference. They all lie to the left of the American republican system and are all alike except in little local peculiarities.

I think Willkie would try to revive prviate business, the only kind of business that can give healthy employment and save the republic. He is a friend of private business, and Mr. Roosevelt is its enemy. If private business does not revive, government business will be the only business, and we will have the same kind of country, saving our national peculiarities, that the Germans, Italians and Russians are imposing wherever they can.

Willkie might fail. He might not be man enough, the job might be too big and the republican system may now be hopelessly damaged, and the burden of debt and unemployment may be too heavy for the axles.

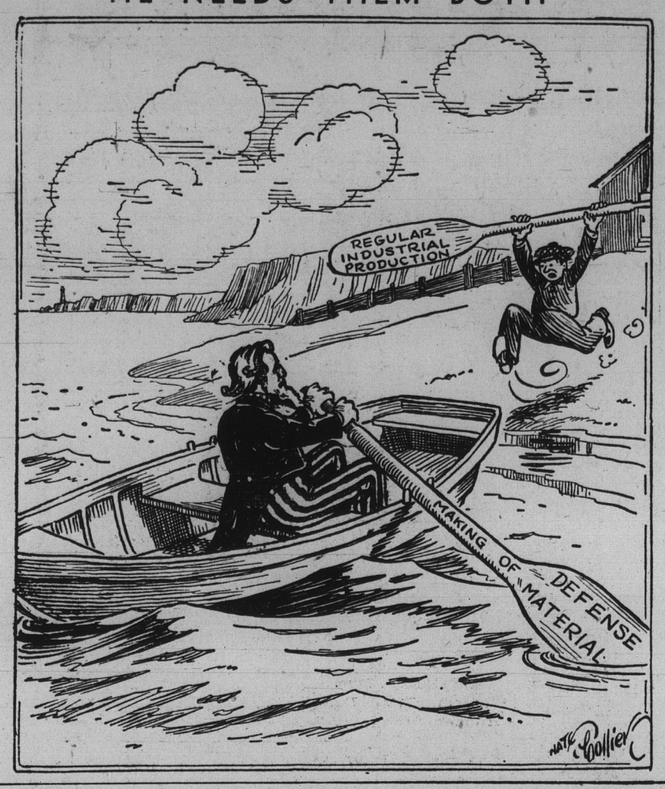

But Mr. Willkie would try to save it, and Mr. Roosevelt has been consorting with those who say it isn't worth repairing and should be replaced by a new model.

CRIME CAREER OF YOUTH ENDS

CAMPTONVILLE, Oct. 21. — Charles Schweitzer, a blonde youth twenty years old, who was arrested last week by Patrolman A. J. Ponta, and who gave his name at the time as Mervin A. Mitchell, of Gridley, displaying Mitchell's operators license which he had stolen, has admitted the theft of the car in which he was apprehended.

The car was stolen while parked i nthe streets at Oroville, and Schweitzer was turned over to the Oroville Highway Patrol officers Thursday by Officer Ponta.

The apprehension of Schweitzer will probably end a series of thefts that has taken place here during the recent few weeks. A day before his arrest he endeavored to sell an engine and pump mining outfit taken from Freemans Crossing and also found in his possession was a suitcase full of clothes, automobile pink slip, army discharge papers all belonging to Elliott Carlson which articles were also stolen from Freemans Crossing.

"I wish to assure you that I will present your letter and discuss this problem with the commissioners," Bozzani wrote. "I reassure you of my full cooperation in any problem which is for the good of all the people of our state."

JUST WONDERIN'

I wonder about presidents—
In this, our free born nation,
They come to serve us as they may,
From every rank and station;
As each one accepts the post
To which our vote assigns him,
The half of us exalt his name—
The other half maligns him.

I wonder why each one of our national presidents, from Washington to Roosevelt, have been so harshly judged by those of his own generation.

Are contemporaneous critics to be trusted? Do they lack the perspective necessary to a correct and just estimate of a man's life, character and work?

History has a disconcerting trick of revising the decisions rendered by a prominent man's contemporaries. Should this fact give us pause?

This heckling of American presidents is an old custom, which was established during Washington's terms in office. His enemies called him "tory, traitor, aristocrat!" They showered many unprintable invectives about his pathway. They said—he wanted to be king.

Thereafter each president in turn ran the gauntlet of lashing tongues. Vituperation seared the soul of Andrew Jackson and did not spare his wife, who, according to the fine ladies of that period was, "uncouth, ignorant, unfitted to fill the position of first lady."

Jefferson was labeled "dictator." Every vile term known to the language was applied to President Lincoln—I should be ashamed to repeat them here in connection with his revered name. History however, records the fact that his assailants called him "tyrant", and accused him of being solely responsible for the horrors of the civil war.

Not a single president escaped, Cleveland's name was disgustingly scandalized, and the tide of vilification which surged about President McKinley led finally, it has been alleged, to hs assassination.

"Our Teddy," came in for his share of unfavorable comment. He "carried a big stick." And he wasted the tax payers money by sending the fleet around the world. Do you recall the bitter fate of President Wilson? Wasn't he as truly a victim of the war and of public bitterness as though he had been slain upon the field of battle?

Think of President Harding. No don't. Or if you do, sit in a darkened room and blush unseen.

It is not so long ago that we were blaming Mr. Hoover for the breaking down of the world's economic system and for the depression in general.

In glancing back over these stained pages of the past, it is my firm conviction that never in the history of our land has a president received so deadly an insult as has President Roosevelt. He has been compared to the mad beast of Berlin—he has been called fuehrer! No chief executive of these United States ever deserved to be so blackly stigmatized. The insult reflects unpleasantly upon the army and navy of which he is now commander in chief, and offers a sad commentary upon the taste of those who repeat it.

How will future historians appraise President Roosevelt and his administration? What will they write of those who blamed and those who praised him? This we cannot know, but the record will remain. It is even now fast becoming an imperishable chapter of our national history.

—A. MERRIAM CONNER.

BUSY MAN TAKES OVER

Jerrold L. Seawell of Roseville, speaker pro tem of the State Senate, has taken off his coat and gone to work in an effort to elect Wendell L. Willkie as president. Seawell has been appointed manager of the Northern California Willkie-McNary campaign.

HIGHWAY FUND NEXT 2 YEARS 139 MILLIONS

A coordinated statewide highway construction program, calling for the expenditure of $62,080,700 during the 1941-43 biennium, was filed with the California State Highway Commission at its last meeting, in Oakland, by the Statewide Highway Committee of the California State Chamber of Commerce.

Of this total $33,561,700 was recommended for the 45 northern counties of the state and $28,499,200 was recommended for the 13 southern counties. During the forthcoming biennium, according to an analysis made by the State Chamber the total revenue will amount to $139,124,000 of which $63,564,000 will be available for all forms of construction.

Of this amount, the State Chamber estimates that $54,560,000 will accrue from the gasoline tax, use tax, caravan tax, and motor vehicle registration fees; and that $9,000,000 will come from federal aid for California highways. In addition to this, it is estimated that $20,000,000 more will be available for the maintenance and general administration of the Division of Highways.

From the gasoline tax alone, according to the State Chamber analysis, the revenue yield for the next biennium will be $110,280,000, as compared with $103,734,113 for the biennium just closing; and $94,289,703 for the 1937-39 biennium period.

Presentation of the state chamber recommendations to the commission was made by James Mussatti, general manager of the organization. In his statement to the commission, Mussatti pointed out that recommendations were based on studies which continued over a period of many months.

THE LIFE OF WENDELL WILLKIE - - - - - - - From the Willkie Volunteers in Northern California

Wendell Willkie's attitude changed somewhat as an upper classman. From a Latin Quarter rebel he turned into a fraternity man and joined the Beta Theta Pi Chapter that had as one of its leaders Paul Vories McNutt, who also developed Presidential aspirations.

He got his first degree from the University of Indiana in the summer of 1913. The struggles of his parents as country lawyers made him shy away from the practice of law. He decided he would try his hand at teaching instead.

The following fall found him an instructor in history in the high school at Coffeyville, Kan. He was faculty adviser to the Y.M.C.A., organizer of the debating teams and his assembly talks won him the name of "Pepper Can" Willkie.

He was also coach of the track team and the basketball team. The basketball team under his coaching won six games out of ten that season and Willkie blames the loss of the other four to lack of practice because the poultry show filled the school gymnasium.

One year as a teacher convinced Wendell Willkie that he would not be content in the work and so he returned to the University of Indiana and took up the study of law. He completed his law course in 1916.

When he had been admitted to the Indiana Bar his father, pleased that his son had finally turned to the profession of his parents, took him into his office and formed the firm of Willkie, Willkie & Willkie.

While serving as an usher at the wedding of one of his friends Wendell met the maid of honor, a young lady by the name of Edith Wilk of Rushville, Ind. Wendell decided she was to be the future Mrs. Willkie.

When America entered the World War, April 6, 1917, Wendell enlisted in the first officers' training camp and came out of training at Camp Knox a lieutenant of field artillery. He was stationed at Camp Taylor.

RUTH'S 80 YARD RUN PROVIDES GAME'S THRILL

Yellowjacket Backfield Ace Scampers Brilliantly Through Opponents

Featured by an 80 yard run to a touchdown by Floyd Ruth star backfield, the Nevada City Yellowjackets Friday afternoon swamped the Placer Union High School Reserves by a score of 26 to 6.

Ruth took the kickoff at the opening of the second half on his 20 yard line and scampered to paydirt. Ruth's run was the biggest thrill of the game.

Allen Spracklen scored the first Yellowjacket touchdown early in the game. In the second quarter the visitors made a touchdown and the score was tied at the end of the first half.

Ruth's touchdown put the Yellowjackets out in front and in the third quarter Roberts intercepted a pass on the Placer 25 yard stripe and took the ball over for the third touchdown. The last touchdown was made by Phillips.

The victory was Nevada City's third of the year. Coach Ed Frantz' boys have played good ball in every game. Their ambition is to win over the Grass Valley High School in the big game of the year, which will be played on Armistice Day in Grass Valley.

This coming Saturday on the local turf the Yellowjackets will battle the Roseville Tigers. Both the A and B teams of the school will tangle.

WILLIAMSON, NEW STUDEBAKER AND PONTIAC DEALER

W. S. Williamson, of the Service Garage of this city, has just received the appointment of subdealer in Studebaker and Pontiac cars. Williamson established in years past a reputation of first class work in automobile repair and servicing and has a host of friends to wish him success in this new line of business.

His appointment was made by Gilbert Cramer of Hills Flat, who holds the distributorship for the two cars in this area. Cramer, has built up a large business in auto sales both in new and used lines.

Last year Pontiac and Studebaker were two of the leaders in national sales. For both cars new records of sales were established, and this year the new 1941 models, now on display at Cramer's Auto Exchange and Williamson's Service Garage, give every reason to expect that last year''s sales totals will be exceeded. Both cars claim an economy in operation that go a long way toward deciding prospective buyers in their favor.

War OR Defense

THE presidential campaign, as it grows in intensity day by day, challenges thoughtful minds more fully than any other during the last eighty years.

In the two leading contenders, President Roosevelt and Wendell L. Willkie, we have two flashing personalities. As the campaign proceeds, however, thoughtful voters will take increasing care to see to it that the brilliance of neither of them obscures the fundamental issues at stake.

Stripped of all other political questions great and small, the one paramount issue is, "Shall this, our present form of democracy, be retained or must the nation proceed with the avalanche speed of the last few years toward a highly centralized bureaucratic government, having within itself the power to sustain itself without decision on the part of the people?"

It is apparent that men and women everywhere sense the crucial import of this question, whether they have analyzed it or not. And that explains the unusual character of the fight that is being waged in behalf of Wendell L. Willkie in every state in the union.

The Willkie Clubs have sprung into existence without political leadership or party jurisdiction. Their millions of members, for the most part, are men and women who heretofore have taken little part in politics. They are made up of independent voters, small businessmen and women and young people. They fear the effect of a Third Term, not because of traditions against it, but because of the deep-seated feeling that the American principle of representative government is in danger.

But not even this historic contest between Willkie who would preserve the American principle and Roosevelt who regards it as a relic of horse and buggy days can submerge another constant thought that is in the mind of every American citizen: "Will America get into the war?"

Abhorrence of war is as deep-rooted in American life as the common love for liberty. In casting his vote on Election Day, each voter is going to ask himself which candidate is most likely to avoid war. Both have said they do not want war.

Very definitely the American public has decided that the only real security against war is in armed defense so invincible that no power will dare attack us. In times of great crisis, the people have always been moved to rely with hopeful hearts upon their government. Now they are sorely perplexed. They have questioned little, if any, of the billions of dollars that have been appropriated. They remember that war clouds have been hanging heavy on the horizon for more than a year. They have accepted with traditional patriotism a law conscripting their young men. Nevertheless, they know battles cannot be fought by men alone without guns and airplanes.

Something seems to be wrong at Washington. With all appropriations available for production, purchase and expansion of armaments, progress is slow. As late as October 1st, it was found that the army and navy together have only about 500 planes suitable for first-line fighting. The remainder are training ships or airplanes of secondary importance. At the present rate of progress, some reliable sources estimate that we will have no more than a thousand additional first-line planes by January 1st, 1942. The Army had as of Oct. 1 of this year, only about 500 tanks and one half of them are obsolete. It had 372 anti-aircraft guns, only one of which is of an approved modern type, and that is not enough to defend one city.

Voters, therefore, are asking themselves: "Can we trust the present red tape and slow-moving bureau control to get action and to get it quickly, or, in the light of past failures, is not speedy, efficient arming by the present administration merely a forlorn hope?"

Upon rapid production of implements of war, rests the hope of American fathers and mothers for the protection of their homes and the safeguarding of their sons now to be inducted into military service.

Wendell Willkie, not Franklin Roosevelt, has the experience and genius in production and in mobilization so terribly needed at this tragic time. Thoughtful voters, whether calling themselves business men or workers, want armaments now, not years hence. They want guns, munitions and airplanes in reality and not "on order."

Ramparts of Democracy Lecture Scheduled

"Hitler's Secret Weapon" is the subject of a lecture to be delivered next Monday and Tuesday evenings at 8 o'clock at the Veterans' Memorial Building in Grass Valley by Eloi-Sun former dean of applied psychology at the University of London, columnist for the London Dispatch and editor of the British magazine "Zest."

Eloi-Sun says that, despite derisive assertions from many military men that such a weapon does not exist and that it is the invention of an over-imaginative public, the weapon really does exist and cites three personal interviews with the "mad fueher" himself as proof of its reality.

According to Eloi-Sun, he withstood the horrors of Nuremberg prison before finally winning release to return to his native America. He brought with him what he promises is "one of the most unnerving, world-shaking tales in history—the story of Hitler's Secret Weapon. And he hastens to point out that that weapon is "no death ray, nerve gas or any other engine of destruction within the reach of normal imagination."

Eloi-Sun proposes to reveal this secret weapon and the defense against it—in his lecture here—as he has done in scores of other American cities.

Mr. and Mrs. Elbridge Skeahan have returned from a two weeks vacation. Skeahan is employed in the local postoffice.

Social Events

Elks Charity Party Plans Progressing

Plans are progressing for the Nevada City Elks Hallowe'en party, which will be held on Saturday night November 2nd. The party will have a Hallowe'en and carnival motive.

The proceeds of the party will be for the benefit of the annual Elks White Christmas in Nevada City Elks members, their families and friends are invited to the party. There will be many varieties of entertainment.

John Sbaffi, chairman, and a corps of assistants, who successfully staged the recent Elks barn dance, are in charge of arrangements for the affair. Novel features planned by the committee will be announced to the public from time to time.

New Methodist Social Hall Opens Tomorrow Night

Open house will be held in the new Methodist Church social hall tomorrow night. The public is invited to inspect the new hall and improvements made to other parts of the church at a cost of approximately $2,000.

The Ladies Aid Society of the Methodist Church will serve a turkey dinner in the new hall, which has a seating capacity of several hundred. An entertainment program will be presented. Tickets for the turkey dinner are still obtainable.

The new social hall is located in the rear of the church. Two large windows, constructed through the generosity of W. G. Robson, give a wonderful view of the southern part of the city. The hardwood floors have been sanded and are in perfect condition.

Rev. David Ralston, pastor of the Methodist Church, believes the new hall fills a long felt need in this city. He anticipates considerable activity in the new hall by the younger folk of this city.
